

What is informed?

ruleoflaw.org.au/education/informed

Welcome!

As adult citizens of Australia, you will be required to participate in civic duties and contribute to important decisions for our community.

We think it's really important that you are prepared for this and that you understand the systems we have, why they were created that way and how they help to keep Australia's democracy operating well, so we designed informed to help!

ruleoflaw.org.au/education/informed

Slide 2

SLO Retrospectivity, reflect society values ie rule of law so upholds presumption of innocence, fair trial,
Sally Layson, 2024-11-17T06:00:50.921

SLO 0 Could this be a table - more like a checklist?
Sally Layson, 2024-11-17T07:31:02.979

So... what is it?

informed is a competition that is designed to get the young people of Australia to make a video that teaches other young Australians about civics concepts.

We want you to learn about these concepts, then create a video that will show how these concepts apply to young Australians today. You can do this by showing your creative skills and using case studies, your own experiences or scenarios you create to show these concepts in action!

ruleoflaw.org.au/education/informed

What do we need to do to enter?

- Your teacher will teach you about a civics concept related to what you have learned in class. There are resources for you to use in this learning – an information or fact sheet and a PowerPoint are the starting points.
- Complete the quizzes at the end of each PowerPoint to check for understanding of the concepts and ask any questions you have of your teacher.
- Create a video that shows that concept in action or looks at the concept using a case study or scenario that you create. The video guidelines are:
 - that it can only be a maximum of 60 seconds long (TikTok or Reels style)
 - must be factually accurate, if not, we can't post it on our YouTube channel!
 - it should not just be re-teaching the content, but applying it to show you understand how it applies to your world
 - You should use Australian examples
 - it should be able to be publicly displayed on our YouTube channel or website – so make sure everyone has permission to be in it!

What do we need to do to enter?

- Once you have edited your video and have finished the task, submit your video by uploading it to at the link on the informed webpage at www.ruleoflaw.org.au/education/informed or here
- The winning video will be the one with the most user engagement ... so make sure you keep an eye out for it on our YouTube Channel – Rule of Law Legal Studies and get your friends and family to like and share it!
- We will let your teacher know if you have a winning entry at the end of January!

What do we win?

- Every entry will receive a certificate, and you will be able to add onto your CV that you have been awarded an Emerging Citizens (5-8) or Ready Citizen (9-10) Certificate
- Winning entries will receive a medal or pennant, and have their video featured on our website and YouTube Channel as a resource for teachers and students to use in their own learning!

Happy creating!

is a project of
RULE OF LAW

EDUCATION CENTRE

To learn more, check out our resource page at <https://www.ruleoflaw.org.au/education/informed>